

Cosmology What Happens in a Black Hole?

 Top-level Science

by Josef Kemény 19/03/2012

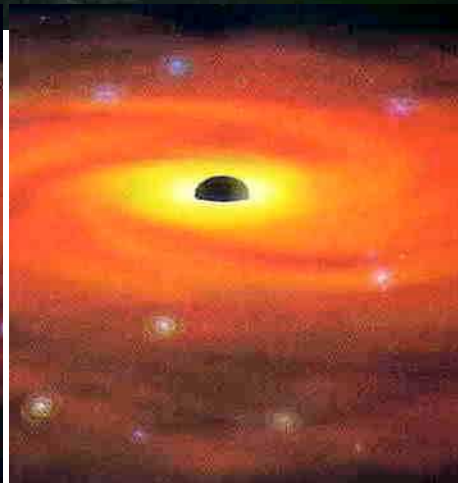

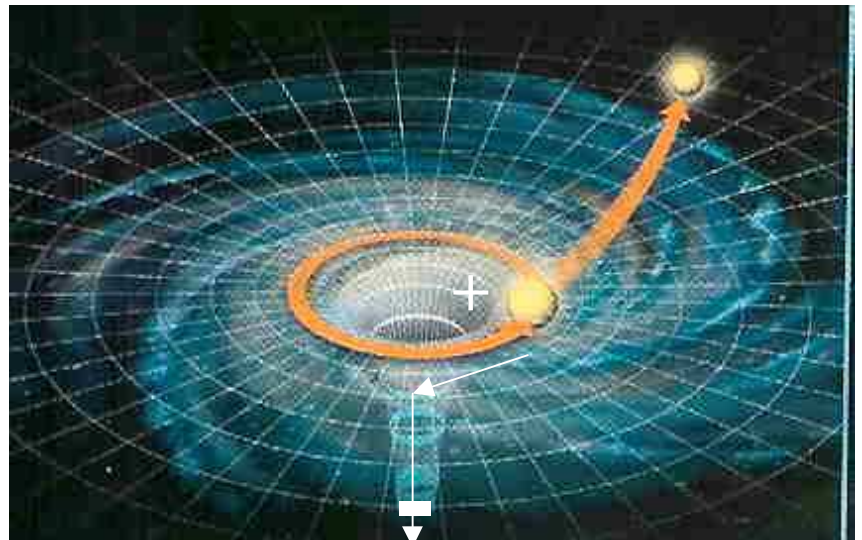

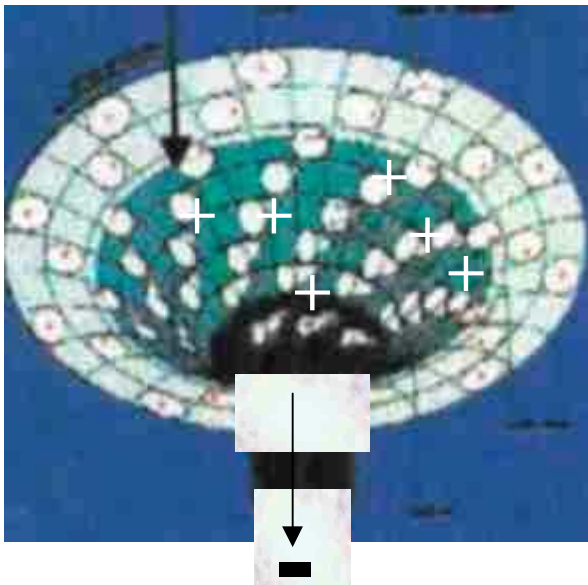

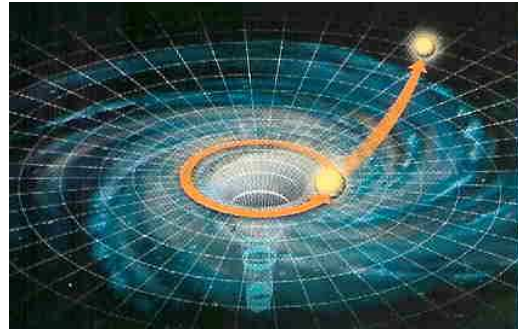

Celestial bodies move closer and closer to the black hole at the centre of the Milky Way.

The first thing I do is to refer the reader to the link The Secret of the Black Hole. If we understand what the secret of the black hole really is about, we can go on. About two years ago, in my dream, I was in a black hole in our galaxy, at the centre of the Milky Way. I will try to write about as scientifically and simple as possible to make it easier for most people who read my homepage around the world to understand what I have experienced, for example in the black hole.

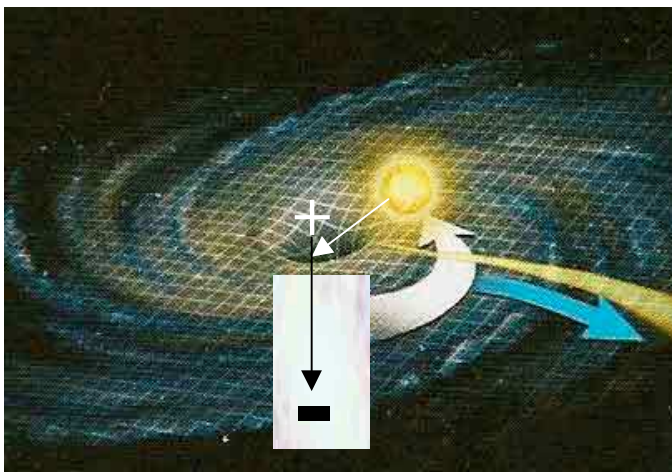

Here we can see that all living celestial bodies in our galaxy will end up in the so-called black hole which in reality is not black, it is a symbolic description by scientists on Earth. The black hole exists at the centre of the Milky Way.

Each living star is a celestial body with a positive charge, an already known so-called proton-proton chain/main sequence star (star with a low mass) in which transformation from hydrogen to helium takes place. This star or sun is alive and is called a “living” star or sun with a positive charge. (Here we also find high-mass stars which produce energy via the CNO cycle. Thus main sequence stars with low and high mass and celestial bodies have a positive charge.

Each living star or celestial body will end up at the centre of Milky Way via the black hole. Actually the black hole is the entrance to the black hole. When I was on a celestial body at a certain frequency level the celestial body had a grayish light at the beginning. When it reached the velocity around the black hole where transformation of matter takes place, it changed into a white light. I was in an infinitely large white light and felt a weak pull downwards. With downwards I mean under my feet and suddenly I woke up. This white light comes into existence each time the matter of a celestial body transforms around the black hole and continues all the way to the inner parts of the galaxy. If the mass of the celestial body is low, the velocity is higher than if the mass is high. In this case the speed of light is low. The journey, irrespective of the size of the celestial body seems to be infinitely long, time seems to stand still. When the last celestial body passes through the entrance, it will close forever.

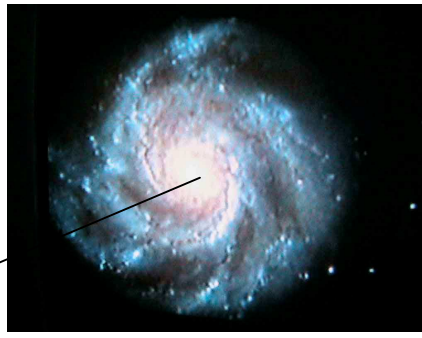

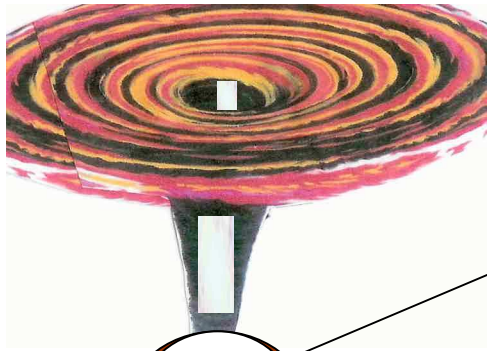

It seems as if the inner part of the Milky Way has a strong negative charge which attracts all living celestial bodies with a terrible attraction force.

Imagine you are alone in an infinitely large white light, in a matter you can see but not touch and how you everything move slowly below you. I panicked and woke up almost simultaneously. But at the same time I saw how the matter we call ”dark matter” was transformed and I heard the words ”end, end”. The actual visit to the celestial body took a very long time, I also thought that time started to stand still, but waking up only took a few seconds.

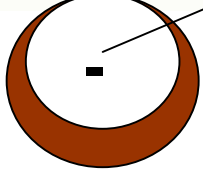

I had another strange dream on September 12, 2002, when I visited one of the seven worlds. I saw the world in front of me and believed I was holding a terribly long sword in the form of a white light in my right hand. The sword consisted of white light, i.e. white matter which was weightless. The white light was similar to the light I experienced on the celestial body in the black hole.

I only had one thought: "I want to be with my father" and I asked the man who was beside me to immediately get hold of my sister. Then I woke up. The gigantic, living white sword was a symbol of "Life, knowledge and power."

The creation of a human world is now going on inside the galaxy, a world in which the human being is the master of his/her future world.

The inside of the galaxy is like a spherical negatively charged nucleus in which the creation of a human world takes place, a new beginning. This world is unknown to us, people who have already ended up there will never come back. This is valid for humans, not animals.

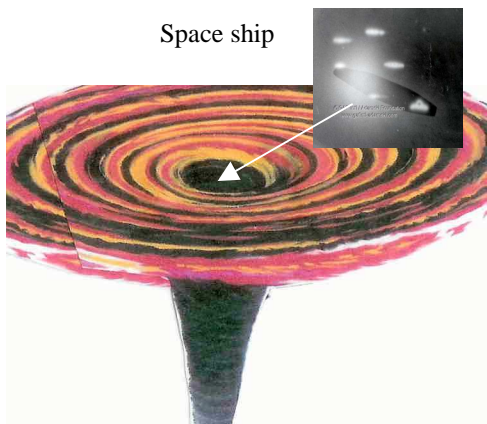

When the matter of the last celestial body melts together with the inner matter of the galaxy, the entrance will close forever. The black is not black but more greyish at its natural level of frequency. But when transformation of matter takes place it turns white, to us it seems black and very dense. Eventually the future sphere or nucleus will get its final frequency level which will be unique for our galaxy. Each galaxy will have its own frequency level which will separate it from all others. All galaxies have the same goal, but only one will reach it.

A dark galaxy which is before us. All dark galaxies are, by the way, before us in time. We are behind them.

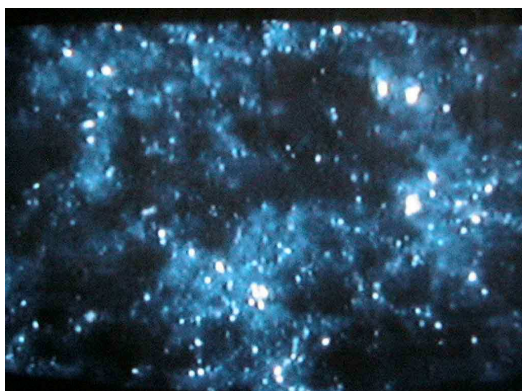

Space ship

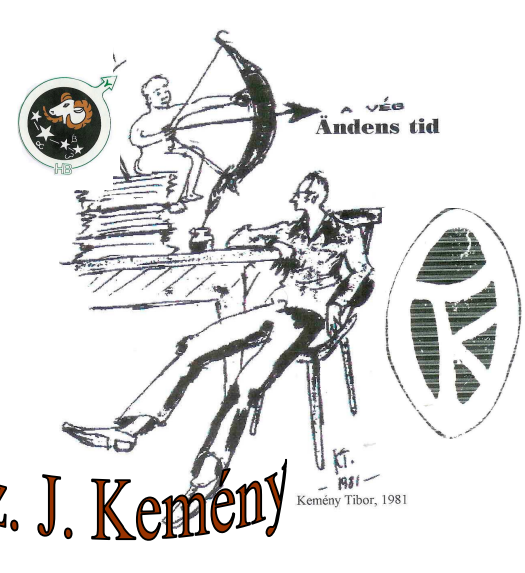

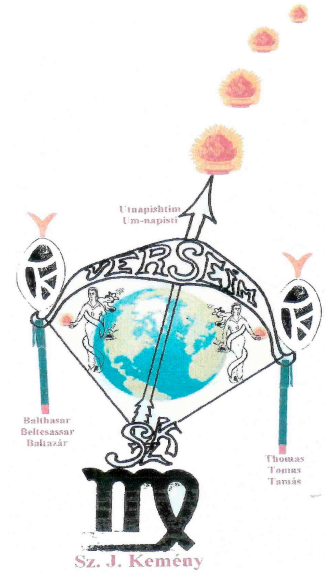

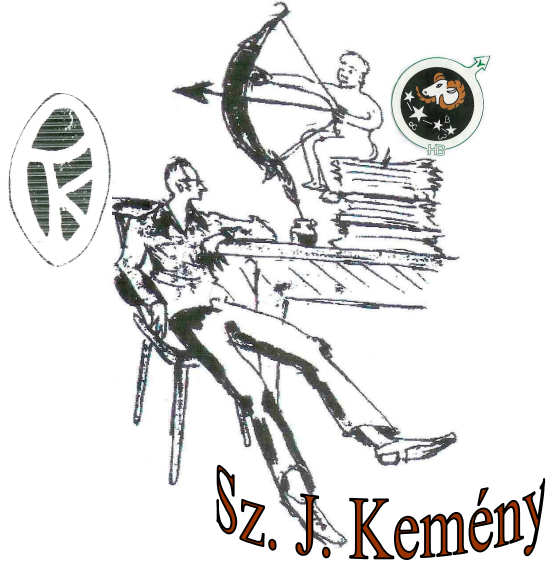

We live in a human world which is ruled by nature, we need to know about the laws of nature. It is a fact that there are evil and evil forces even in our world. Nature guarantees that this power from evil forces is very limited. I have mentioned before, at the link The Secret of the Black Hole, page 5, that it is possible for people with blood group O/Rh+ to get into the inner part of the galaxy via the black hole. The requirement is that you are totally free from animal products and drugs, i.e. you need to be a 100% vegetarian and free from drugs. These people are at the necessary level of frequency to pass the barrier to the inner part of the galaxy. Finally, these people will automatically end up at a suitable celestial body.

What happens to other people with blood groups A, B and AB and other creatures and animal species? There are different space ships which can operate between different vibrational world at different levels of frequency and all these creatures can use them. This is the question: Can these space ships adjust to the current frequency level to be able to pass the barrier? Sure they can. But the problem that these space ships are built of ordinary matter and the question is how the black hole reacts with the dead matter. Will it be thrown out like the dying stars? Or will there be a transformation process here as well? What happens to the crew who are not at same level of frequency as the space ship but still can travel with it? Will they end up orbiting the black hole and will there be a transformation of matter there? Either the whole process works well or there will be a substantial discharge killing or exterminating the crew. Nobody knows for sure, since communication has been permanently disrupted. I am sure someone has tested this way of getting into the inner parts of the galaxy, but does not talk about it. Especially not here on Earth where we have a sick, dying life in cancer. Our planet is isolated from other worlds. As far as I can understand the Earth is used as a laboratory by non-human aliens.

The only recommendation I can give, for example to people of blood group Rh+ is to free themselves from animal products and drugs, be as human as possible. Then you have secured several future reincarnations in a human body and can advance to even higher levels of knowledge and life.

People of blood group O/ORh+ and living stars/suns

All types of creature in a human body with blood groups ARh+, BRh+ and ABRh+

All these three future gigantic worlds in one unity are based on nature, human beings and knowledge. Without money, wealth, god and religion. These are only to be found in sick and evil worlds like ours.

All creatures in a human body and humans belonging to blood group O/ORh-, ARh-, BRh- och ABRh- and all dying stars/suns.
